

Editorial

I want to welcome all our readers in the new year 2023, and wish them all the best. I am delighted to serve a portion of a fresh reading. Three of the papers in this volume are focused mainly on processes, from volcanology to thermodynamic modeling of what happens during weathering of ores. The fourth paper focuses on describing the new mineral, fluorpyromorphite, which has been unseen until now but has been expectable!

In Prague, January 16, 2023

Jakub K. Plášil